Tykes2Teens will only sell car seats and bases that have at least one year of useful life left. We will always assume that all car seats and bases have a life of five years from the manufacture date unless an expiration date is listed that proves otherwise. If you sell a car seat that only includes a manufacture date and find on the manufacturer website that the model you are selling has a life beyond five years, you MUST attach proof of that by either providing the user's manual with that information spelled out or by attaching a printout of that information from the manufacturer's website.
